Man, 26, Burns To Death In Trailer

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

A 26-year-old man was burned to death early this morning when fire swept his trailer in Miller's Trailer Park, Croydon.

The victim was Leo C. Cook, 26-year - old machine worker, who moved into Trailer No. 23 about four weeks ago. Authorities believe he formerly lived in Lindenwold, N.J.

Cause of the fire, which burned the entire interior of the trailer, has not yet been determined. Harry Beck, chief of Croydon Fire Co. No. 1, estimated damage at $5,000.

The trailer park, located on Cedar Ave., between State Road and Route 13, is owned by David Y. Miller, Bristol Township plumbing official.

Next Trailer

Harry MacNeillys, who lives in the trailer next to Cook, discovered the blaze shortly after 5:30 a.m. He and other trailer owner, George Clipner, told police Cook's trailer was enveloped in flames when they arrived on the scene.

MacNeillys called Croydon Fire Co. No. 1 while Clipner turned off the propane gas tanks in front of the trailer.

Both men said they were unable to get to Cook because of the flames. They said they heard him moving around in the trailer.

Near Front Door

Cook's body was found near the front door of the trailer. MacNeillys said the door was ajar when he discovered the fire. Chief Beck said Cook apparently tried to escape the flaming trailer and had reached the door but was unable to go any further.

Cook was taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital by the Bucks County Rescue squad. He was pronounced dead at 8:30 a.m. Bucks County Deputy Coroner John C. Black said death was caused by third degree burns of the entire body.

Was Separated

Patrolman Robert McKee, Bristol Township police, was on routine patrol at 6:10 a.m. when he saw the fire from a Route 13 laundromat.

Cook, who was employed at the Eddington Machine Co., Street Road, Bensalem Township, was married but had been separated from his wife and two children.

He reportedly moved into the trailer park about four weeks ago, desirous to "see what trailer life was like," one fire official stated.

Cause of the tragic fire is being investigated by Chief Beck, Bucks County Fire Marshal Fred Hibbs and Bristol Township Fire Marshals John Doster and Harry Backhouse.

Good Evening!

Perfect — this Thanksgiving Day, 1964.

A day for resting and relaxing and enjoying excursions into traditional gourmanderie, but especially a day for being thankful for more blessings than are easy to count.

All right. Until tomorrow, forget about the diet. A little starving over the weekend does the compensating.

That baby northeaster dumped better than an inch of rain on Bucks yesterday afternoon and last night and rarely have we more enjoyed getting wet. That bit of heavy sprinkle should meet the water requirements for the next few weeks.

We'll say one thing: The greens were holding the ball — real well, as those mudders Jim Darrah, Jim Leavitt and Ollie Marron will attest.

Second American - Belgian mercy airlift rescues 200 more from the Congo's Stanleyville barbarism, triggered and whipped up by the Chinese Reds.

And Uncle Sam properly rejects Moscow's inane charges that the air missions constitute "armed intervention." Such irresponsible accusations just more evidence that whatever the pretty talk occasionally, the Moscow brand of Communism doesn't differ basically from the Peking label.

High drama as 28 crew members are rescued after the Israeli luxury liner Shalom collides with a Norwegian tanker and splits it in half off busy New York Harbor.

Yet, 10 are known dead and five crewmen unaccounted for.

And we see where U.S. Postmaster General Gronouski is considering increasing rates on second and third class mail and closing hundreds of small postoffices across the land as a matter of trying to cut the department's deficit.

The postoffice department just never learns. It represents the biggest business in the United States and it's still operated as though it hadn't yet emerged from the 18th century.

Take it easy with the driving, please, today and throughout the weekend.

Have a good Thanksgiving.

OFF JERSEY COAST

ISRAEL LUXURY LINER SPLITS TANKER, 16 DEAD, 4 MISSING

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Israeli luxury liner Shalom, headed for its first Caribbean cruise with hundreds of vacationers aboard, knifed through a Norwegian tanker today in peasoup fog shortly after leaving New York harbor.

A Coast Guard command report from the scene six hours after the 2:23 a.m. EST disaster listed 15 Norwegian seamen dead, four unaccounted for, and 24 survivors.

The Coast Guard reported nearly eight hours after the 2:23 a.m. EST disaster that 16 crewmen of the Norwegian ship Dagali were dead, 23 survived and four were unaccounted for.

The crew was made up of 40 Norwegians, two Spaniards and one resident of Trinidad.

One Shalom passenger, identified as Marge Postalico, was injured. She was reported in serious condition at Walston Army Hospital, Fort Dix, N.J., as the result of massive bleeding.

The tragedy occurred about 46 miles south southeast of New York Harbor, about 17 miles northeast of Barnegat Light, N.J.

The 12,723-ton tanker Dagali was split in two by the impact of the 25,338-ton Shalom's bow.

Ten men clung for several hours to the bow section before they were plucked to safety by a Coast Guard helicopter and the liner Santa Paula, one of seven vessels which rushed to the scene. The Dagali's stern section sank but the bow stayed afloat several hours.

Coast Guard rescue vessels took survivors to a hospital at Point Pleasant, N.J. Survivors rescued by helicopter were taken to the Naval Air Station Hospital at Lakehurst, N.J.

The Thanksgiving morning collision was described by the Coast Guard as a major marine disaster. It put an end to the 10½ day Thanksgiving holiday cruise for the 616 passengers aboard the Shalom almost before it began.

The gleaming $20 million liner which also carried 460 crewmen turned about and headed back to New York. It reported damages and some flooding in the forward section. Five of the rescued crewmen were aboard.

It was due to dock about 1:30 p.m. EST.

The rescue operation was hampered by heavy fog but the seas were calm and the temperature in the 50's. Searchlights and flares were of little use in trying to locate survivors.

Coast Guard personnel said they saw one body in the water that disappeared before they could reach it.

Miss Tostalisco was removed from the Shalom in a basket lowered from a Coast Guard helicopter by pilot Lt. Robert C. Williams and co-pilot Lt. George Mitchell, both of Brooklyn.

Many Rescue Craft

In addition to the Santa Paula and another merchant vessel, there were five Coast Guard cutters and an amphibian plane at the scene. Helicopter were dispatched by the Floyd Ben-

Unless Huong Quits

Students Threaten Suicide By Fire

SAIGON, Thursday (UPI)—Ultimatums circulated today threatening demonstrators would commit suicide by fire if the civilian government of Premier Tran Van Huong does not resign by midnight tonight.

Acting under martial law imposed by Huong, paratroopers with fixed bayonets patroled the streets to put down student demonstrations.

The nation's high National Council—the supreme legislative body—scheduled a meeting this afternoon at which it could vote the government out of power. Council sources said this was unlikely, however.

More probably, the council would consider the composition of Huong's cabinet. Rioting students have charged that the cabinet ministers are not young or revolutionary enough to hold their posts.

Huong Wednesday closed Saigon's schools.

Paratroopers charged through 15-foot walls of flames to disperse thousands of student demonstrators who hurled rocks, tossed grenades, and set fire to gasoline poured in the streets.

Circulates Warning

The ultimatum warning of immolations by fire was circulated by a group called "The United Committee of All Political Parties, Religious Sects, Youth, Students and School Children."

It was noted, however, that the groups mentioned in the groups mentioned in the mimeo-

Dawn Mission

200 Whites Saved In New Airdrop

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) —An American - Belgian airlift today rescued another 200 white hostages from Congolese rebels. But at least 14 other whites, including an American, were reported killed and fed to crocodiles.

Belgian paratroops and U.S. Air Force pilots made a spectacular rescue from the rebel-held town of Paulis in the heart of Congolese jungles. It followed by 48 hours a similar operation in Stanleyville.

But one of the survivors, honoary Belgian Consul Andre De Gotte, said 20 European men were beaten to death by the rebels Wednesday and Tuesday and that at least 14 of them had been thrown into a crocodile-infested river.

He said the 14 included Dr. Joseph Tucker, an American medical missionary. His home address was not known.

De Gotte said the rebels knew Tucker was an American.

De Gotte was among the first 40 survivors of the Paulis captivity to arrive here. None of the first group was injured, but it was understood that later flights carried injured refugees.

Paullis, 225 miles northwest of Stanleyville, was believed to have been the last major pocket of rebel resistance.

It fell today 2½ hours after the paratroopers landed, but the rebels put up stiff groundfire. One Belgian soldier was reported killed and five other paratroopers wounded.

Four of the U.S. Air Force C130 transport planes, piloted by Americans, were hit but damage was said to have been minor.

Only about half of the 600 Belgian paratroopers who took part in the Stanleyville mission were used in today's operation.

The rest remained behind in Stan eyville, fighting a merciless war of extinction agaonst diehard rebels in Stanleyville and the jungle area surrounding it. The Belgians fought side by side with Congolese Army troops and white mercenaries.

Reds Charge Aggression

MOSCOW (UPI) —The Soviet Union charged today that the Belgian paratroop rescue of white hostages in Paulis, The Congo, was "a new act of aggression."

A Tass dispatch said the reason given for the new landing, "rescuing Europeans," was a pretext.

A Soviet newspaper called the earlier U.S.-Belgian rescue operation in Stanleyville "another link in the long chain of imperialist crimes."

There's No Holiday On A Picket Line

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

There was no Thanksgiving holiday in the Rohm & Haas Co. strike today as pickets continued their vigil outside the gates of the Bristol Township chemical and plastics plant.

As the strike of 1,462 production workers entered its 29th day, F. O. Haas, company president, demanded that the Bristol Township Board of Commissioners re-assign additional police to the plant.

Criticizes Action

His request, in writing, was delivered late yesterday to the homes of each of the 10 commissioners.

Haas sharply criticized the action of the commissioners on Nov. 18 in which they approved Bristol Township Manager Ronald Zweig's recommendation to withdraw extra police from the strike scene.

Zweig had told the commissioners that the emergency strike duty "has made it impossible to provide the normal police services" throughout the township.

Haas wrote the commissioners "this is exceedingly disturbing news to me."

Cites Acts

The Rohm & Haas executive cited numerous acts of violence by pickets and other members of Local 88, United Glass and Ceramic Workers of North America, AFL-CIO-CLC, which resulted in contempt proceedings now in progress in Bucks County Common Pleas Court.

Cites Taxes Paid

Haas demanded the commissioners immediately re-assign a sufficient number of township

Give-A-Christmas Drive Under Way

It's that time of year again. Families throughout Lower Bucks are busy making plans for a merry Chritmas.

And we're making plans for the 11th annual Give-A-Christmas fund drive to help the less fortunate families in our area who can't plan on a merry Christmas because of circumstances.

Co-Sponsored

As always, the drive is sponsored by the Levittown Kiwanis Club and the Courier-Times.

We're planning to give every needy family a merry Christmas this year — every child enough warm clothes to see him through the winter — and every needy family a food basket so they won't go hungry on Christmas.

But our plans can't go through without you. Your contributions, no matter how small, will fill those baskets, dress the children and cheer them when they need it most.

$64 Start

We're already off to a wonderful start with $64.

The Neshaminy Junior Chamber of Commerce has donated $25 and we've got $39 from sales of the Courier-Times-sponsored booth at the Country Days

Thanksgiving — In The 60s

Bucks County was basking in a beautiful, sunny, autumn Thanksgiving holiday today as temperatures headed into the mid 60s.

Drought conditions, which have gripped the area for the past few months, were further eased last night with 1.07 inches of rain. This brought the month's total rainfall to 1.64, still well below the November normal of 3.1 inches.

Fair skies are forecast for tomorrow and Saturday with temperatures a bit cooler in the mid 50s.

DVPA Sets Water Policy

A resolution concerning a water quality policy to be acted upon by the Delaware River Basin Commission in January was passed at a recent meeting in Doylestown of the Delaware Valley Protective Association.

Other resolutions endorsed the poster and essay contests sponsored by the Bucks County Soil Conservation Board and Agricultural Agent, open to all county schools; thanked the Point Pleasant Fire Co. for its help in saving fish during the recent repair emergency on the Delaware Canal; and urged the preservation of Buckingham Mountain as a nature sanctuary by such measures as will insure its protection from the adverse developments of an unpredictable future without disturbing present homes.

A River Road committee was named by President Hal Clark which will soon meet with state highway secretary Henry D. Harral at Haverford to plan immediate action for rebuilding River Road as a scenic highway. A committee to study and bring up to date the DVPA by-laws was also appointed by Clark.

Financial Trends Study Completed

The Bucks County Branch of the Pennsylvania Economy League, Inc., has completed and presented to the county commissioners the results of a detailed study of the financial trends of Bucks County government for the period 1958 through the budget for 1964 — a period in which expenditures for current operations and debt service have more than doubled.

The study was made as a service to the county commissioners as they formulated the budgets for 1965, and the PEL members in appraising the financial trends of county government.

Some explanation of factors affecting these trends is made, but the report is not intended to either justify or criticize the level of expenditures reported The PEL report says it is unfortunate that one can not easily present a clearer picture of the nature of county operations and the reasons behind the changing programs and financial data, due to the relatively skimpy published data available in county financial reports, and in support of county budgets, on anything except financial figures.

Common In State

In making this statement, the PEL levels no special criticism at Bucks County operations, because this situation is rather common in Pennsylvania county government, as well as in Pennsylvania municipal and school government, a spokesman said.

Yet, in a county government where annual expenditures run in the magnitude of $7 million and where the county is undertaking extensive programs in many areas of public administration, the PEL says it would seem advisable to provide more comprehensive public information on the activities of county government, and on the programs and program elements on which the expenditures are based. The appropriate place for such information is in the budgets and financial reports where the relevant facts on programs may be related to costs.

In a rapidly changing county, which has received national attention and recognition for some aspects of its operations, the time would seem to have arrived for improving this element of general and financial administraton, the PEL concluded.

Industrial Development Unit OKs Promote Bucks Plan

A far-reaching public relations program to attract industry to Bucks County was approved this week by the directors of the Bucks County Industrial Development Corporation.

At the same time the board announced that the corporation has reached the three-quarter mark in its $100,000 capital fund drive. The money will be used to assist industries to relocate in the county and for expansion of existing plants.

Promotion Firms

To start the program of advertising Bucks County as an industrial site, business and industrial firms throughout the county will be supplied with four-page promotion folders they can use for distribution outside the county or state.

The folders will be available after Jan. 1. Bernard Glaser Associates of Bristol designed the mailing piece in cooperation with IDC's advertising committee of which Murray C. Hotchkiss, co-publisher of the Courier-Times, is chairman.

Also being planned is a reference study of the county by the Industrial Development and Manufacturing Record, the leading professional publication in the Industrial development field.

The study will appear in the February issue of the publication and 5,000 reprints will be available for distribution.

Included in the 20-page study will be pictures, maps, a detailed text on the industry and resources of the county, and a description of its schools, libraries, churches, and other community assets.

A. C. Willemsen, chairman of the drive, told the directors that all but one or two of the member-banks have made contributions to the fund. He said recent emphasis had been on those kinds of businesses which benefit most from the movement of new industry into the county, such as automobile dealers, building and loan associations, and realtors.

Several Proposals

"The drive will now be directed toward obtaining contributions from public-spirited individuals who reside in the county," he said.

Checks from the fund may be sent to Willemsen at Pomeroy's of Levittown or to William Abbott, executive director of IDC, at the Doylestown office.

W. Bruce Fye, chairman of the finance committee, reported his committee has reviewed several proposals that Abbott had made to assist companies planning to move into Bucks County.

Abbott reported on the completion of two relocation projects: settlement last week on a building in Quakertown, remodeled for a textile firm, and settlement yesterday on a property purchased in Falls Township for the Pittsburgh Metal Lithographing Co.

But Accidental Death Toll Creeps Up

Americans Celebrate Holiday In Joy, Gratitude—With Turkey

By United Press International

Unlike the mournful Thanksgiving of one year ago, Americans celebrated the holiday today in joy and gratitude.

From a turkey and cornbread dressing-laden table on a famed Texas ran to quiet, snow-drenched Montana hillsides, the day was one of thanksful reverence, family reunions and contended rollicking.

The accidental death toll crept up clowly in opening hours.

The United Press International count at 10:30 a.m. EST showed 84 persons had died in traffic accidents. The breakdown:

Traffic	84
Fire	6
Miscellaneous	1
Total	91

Eight persons, including a family of six, were killed in the crash of two vehicles near Olanta, S.C., early today. Three adults and four children were in a station wagon, and the eighth victim was driving alone in the car.

The National Safety Council was not keeping records. But it said 662 persons died in traffic accidents during a similar 102-hour period last year.

Die In Fire

Four young brothers and sisters died in an upstairs parlor where they were playing when fire swept their frame home near downtown Buffalo, N.Y., Wednesday night. Their 25-year old mother had left the children alone.

Three members of a Kansas family on their way to spend Thanksgiving with Nebraska relatives died Wednesday night when a freight train struck their car near Elm Creek, Neb.

A year ago, the nation sat down to holiday tables with appetites numbed and hearts stunned over the assassination of President John F. Kennedy six days earlier.

The First Family this year is gathering on the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City, Tex., for a late afternoon or early evening meal of Iowa turkey and Mrs. Johnson's own special cornbread dressing.

Cold wave warnings were out for much of the northern plains and northern Rockies. Temperatures dropped below zero in Montana where up to a foot of snow fell Wednesday.

Accidents Slow Traffic

The rush of students and workers to the roads for the holiday caused traffic jams and hazardous driving. More than 30 accidents, many of them multiple-car, jammed traffic on the Connecticut Turnpike Wednesday night between Greenwich and Bridgeport, Conn.

Many persons prefaced their feast with religious services. In New York, Methodist and Presbyterian congregations joined for a union observance at the Central Synagogue in Manhattan for the 29th time.

Macy's annual Thanksgiving Day parade in New York marked the official Christmas season kickoff.

Taylor Due In Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor arrives here today for a high-level administration review of strategy in the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam.

Taylor planned to spend Thanksgiving Day with his family, then meet with Secretary of State Dean Rusk Friday. He is expected to see President Johnson early next week. His talks with the Chief Executive, Rusk and other officials may cover four or five days.

A review of Viet Nam policy actually has been going on in Washington for several weeks. Before the election, the President asked officials to begin preparing material to give the government's top-echelon complete briefings on the situation.

Under consideration are a series of possible military moves outside South Viet Nam itself. These are generally included under the term "expansion of the war" and include possible bombing of Communist sources of supply in North Viet Nam and bombing of supply routes through North Viet Nam and Laos.

These moves have been considered in the past and rejected. Highly placed sources said the decision could again go either way. But it was clear these measures were now being considered somewhat more closely than in past reviews.

FBI Knows Who Killed 3 In Miss.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI knows who killed the three young civil rights workers at Philadelphia, Miss., last summer as well as who was responsible for the fatal bombing of a Birmingham church in 1963.

An FBI spokesman admitted officially for the first time yesterday that the agency knew the identity of the slayers of Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, both of New York City, and James Chaney, 21, a Meridian, Miss., Negro.

He said that "intensive investigation is continuing to develop the case for prosecution as quickly as possible." The bodies of the three men were found in a deep grave near an earthen dam in the vicinity of Philadelphia, Miss., about two months after they disappeared last June 21. All three had been shot.

The investigation into the Sept. 15, 1963, church bombing showed that a small group of Ku Klux Klansmen were believed responsible for the tragedy, the FBI spokesman said. Four Negro children were killed in the church blast.

But, he said, "this investigation was prejudiced by premature arrests made by the Alabama Highway Patrol and consequently, it has not yet been possible to obtain evidence or confessions that would assure successful prosecution."

The FBI statement was a reply to charges by the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and other Negro leaders that the FBI was not providing adequate protection for Negroes in the South.

Boy On Bike Hit By Bus

A six - year - old Levittown boy was reported in satisfactory condition today after being struck by a school bus while riding his bicycle near his home.

Steven Walsh of 74 Icepond Road, Indian Creek, was admitted to Lower Bucks County Hospital with a possible concussion.

Bristol Township police reported the boy was riding his bicycle on Emilie Road, near the Blue Ridge section, when struck by a bus operated by Harold Maddox, 38. The bus was from St. Mark's School, Bristol.

Maddox told Patrolman Aaron Kelton the boy had passed one car on the road and was attempting to go by another when the bicycle ran into the path of the bus.

The accident happened at 3:05 p.m. The boy was taken to the hospital by the Levittown-Fairless Hills Rescue Squad. He was treated and released.

Along Durham Road

Middletown Hears Curb, 'Walk Protests

By GREG NAGY
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Several citizens of Middletown Township argued against proposed curbs and sidewalks for Durham Road at a meeting of the supervisors last night.

The township had circulated a letter among residents of the road from Wyoming Ave. to the Penndel Borough line asking for their opinions on the move. The state will widen the road to 26 feet if the township installs curbs. Curbs would cost home owners $2.25 to $2.50 a running foot, and $2 per running foot for sidewalks.

Felt Too Expensive

Mrs. Carl Claassen, a resident of Durham Road, said that the state should do grading and prevent water from accumulating on surrounding property. She, as did other residents, felt the project was too expensive, especially since some homeowners are still paying for sewers that were recently installed on the road. One man wanted to know if he could install the curbs himself.

The supervisors explained that the widening project of the state was conditional on the installation of curbs, but sidewalks did not necessarily have to be constructed. Wyoming Ave. was the limit of the improvements because state authorities felt the new Delaware Expressway would cut into the other section of Durham Road.

Asks Traffic Signal

Mrs. Joe Pahlman asked the board to request a traffic signal from the state for the intersection of Chickenfoot, Woodbourne and Oxford Valley Roads. She was told that a new shopping center planned for the corner of Woodbourne and Oxford Valley Roads might be asked to pay for the signal.

The same shopping center was denied a request for a rezoning of a four acre section in order to build a gas station. However, the supervisors pointed out that zoning changes now under consideration might make gas stations permissable in an area zoned as shopping center commercial.

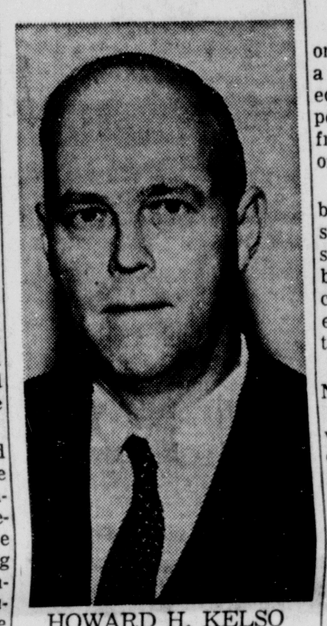
Pick Kelso For Planners



HOWARD H. KELSO

Howard H. Kelso, chief engineer at Fairless Works, U.S. Steel Corp., was appointed by the Middletown Township Board of Supervisors last night to serve on the planning commission of the township.

Kelso has lived for five years at 384 Green Valley Road, and has been a resident of Bucks County for 14 years. A factor in his appointment was that the supervisors wanted somebody from Upper Middletown Township to serve on the commission.

He replaces Elliott Brown, who moved out of the township, and his term will expire in January, 1968.

The planning commission is working on changes in the zoning code of the township.

police to the plant "to guarantee that no more violence or lawlessness occurs in flagrant disregard of law and of the court's orders, but also that raw materials and finished products and personnel may freely move in and out of our plant."

Haas pointed out that the company has been a "very substantial employer and taxpayer in the township for nearly a half century."

He said the need for police protection in that long period has been "rare indeed. But we urgently need it now," he added.

Claims Driver Threatened

Haas referred to the incident on Tuesday afternoon in which a tank truck, loaded with finished goods, was "vandalized by persons massed across the road from the main truck entrance of the plant."

He said stones were thrown by the people and "at least one stone crashed through the windshield of the truck cab and also broke the rear window of the cab, narrowly missing the driver." He said the driver also was threatened with abusive insults.

The driver, Hugo Colasanti of Newark, N.J. testified in court he later installed a plexiglass windshield in the truck and reentered the plant, at which time more stones were thrown at the vehicle in spite of the escort of a dozen Bristol Township police officers who had been summoned to the plant. The second barrage caused no damage.

Plexiglass is a Rohm & Haas product.

James N. Kline, president of the board of commissioners, today disclosed he has sent a telegram to Haas, requesting a meeting with thecompany president to discuss the situation.

Court proceedings on the contempt charges against the union were temporarily halted yesterday when Jack Sirott, Local 88's counsel, was confined to his home with a back ailment.

Contract talks with Federal Mediator Charles Werkheiser also have been suspended until the court hearing is concluded.

Another strike, outside Trenton, was settled last night when Local 439, United Glass and Ceramic Workers, voted to ratify a tentative contract reached Tuesday with the Plax Co. division of the Monsanto Chemical Corp. in Yardville.

The 123-25 vote ended a strike which began Oct. 23.

Johnsons Delay Dinner

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) —President Johnson sits down to a late dinner of Iowa turkey and Lady Bird's cornbread dressing today in a quiet Thanksgiving with his family.

The dinner was put off until late this afternoon or early evening so his daughter, 20-year-old Lynda, could attend a football game 65 miles away in Austin, Tex., between the University of Texas and Texas A&M, a traditional Texas Thanksgiving Day grudge match. Lynda attended the University of Texas until last January.

Her sister, 17-year-old Luci, may also go to the game.

Both girls were arriving this morning from Washington to join their parents at the LBJ Ranch in the central Texas hill country.

Has No Appointments

Johnson had no appointments scheduled, but was expected to spend the day close to the frame and stone ranch house.

He planned a pause in the parade of cabinet officers and high and high administration officials who have been making almost daily visits to discuss the new budget and other business since he arrived a week ago.

A bronze-breasted gobbler from Iowa was chosen for the first course of the First Family's dinner.

Side dishes will include cornbread dressing made from Mrs. Johnson's own recipe, giblet gravy, green beans, asparagus, sweet potatoes and cranberry salad.

The President will top off the old-fashioned repast with ambrosia and cake for dessert.

Driver of the car was Charles F. Hays, 47. The cab driver was Morris Stern, 65, of Flushing, N.Y.

No one was injured in an accident yesterday at 3:15 p.m. involving cars driven by Francine Pergament, 18, of Philadelphia and Edward Codd, 17, of Palmer St., Morrisville.

Authorities To Hear Grievances, Hostages Released

135 Armed Convicts Revolt In Mine Shaft

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI) — Around 135 convicts, armed with dynamite, revolted in a mine shaft yesterday and held three foremen as hostages for 12 hours until prison authorities agreed to hear their grievances on mailing privileges.

The foremen were released unharmed shortly after midnight and the prisoners returned to their cells in the Brushy Mountain State Prison.

"We were treated all right, just fine," said Roy Thompson, one of the foremen. "They didn't threaten us no way, but they had dynamite."

The convicts, 81 whites and 54 Negroes, seized the foremen around noon Wednesday and congregated about ¾ of a mile down a coal mine tunnel in Brushy Mountain. They demanded to talk with state Corrections Commissioner Harry Avery, who rushed here from Nashville, 115 miles to the west.

Promising there would be no violence, the convict leaders negotiated with Avery over an intercom system and then sent a delegation to confer personally with the prisoners director and Warden John D. Winsett.

Avery signed a statement agreeing to consider the convicts' grievances and guaranteeing there would be no reprisals. Quiet and subdued, the prisoners came down from the shaft, ¾ mile up the mountain, in cable cars.

"I'm tremendously pleased that we were able to end this in a comparatively short time without the injury or mistreatment of anyone," Avery said.

He said some of the prisoners' complaints were justified in "segregated instances." He said the prisoners complained largely about regulations against receiving cash money, instead of money orders, in the mail and restricting the length of prisoner letters to two pages.
